2008 Ford Ironman World Championship Results

TOP THREE MEN

Craig Alexander claimed the Ford Ironman World Championship with a solid win over one of the most competitive fields the race has ever seen. Alexander passed Spain's Eneko Llanos during the marathon to take the title, while Belgium's Rutger Beke claimed his fifth podium finish thanks to a strong bike and run.

Craig Alexander • 8:17:45

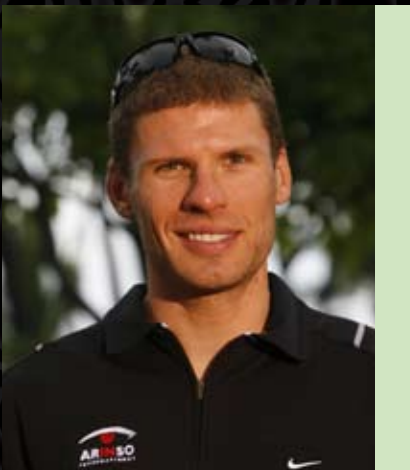

The 2006 Ironman World Championship 70.3 winner added the Ford Ironman World Championship to his impressive resume in 2008. One of the most successful athletes in Ironman 70.3 racing, the Australian claimed the biggest victory of his career thanks to the fastest run split of the day.

Eneko Llanos Burguera • 8:20:50

The two-time XTERRA World Champion has represented Spain at the Olympic Games two times as well. In 2007 he won Ironman Lanzarote, considered the world's toughest Ironman course. This year he was second to Chris McCormack at the Frankfurter Sparkasse Ironman European Championship in addition to his runner-up finish here in Kona.

Rutger Beke • 8:21:23

After finishing in the top-five four times, Beke struggled to an 898th place finish in 2007 after being forced to walk most of the marathon. Today he proved he remains one of the top Ironman competitors in the world with a third place finish.

TOP THREE WOMEN

Chrissie Wellington saw a five-minute lead turn into a five-minute deficit thanks to mechanical problems on the bike, but still managed to be first out on to the run course at the 2008 Ford Ironman World Championship. The fastest women's marathon ever run in Kona ensured she defended her title over Yvonne Van Vlerken and Sandra Wallenhorst.

Chrissie Wellington • 9:06:23

She's never lost an Ironman. After winning her first race in Korea in 2007, Great Britain's Wellington dominated the race here in Kona a few months later. In 2008 she won at Ironman Australia, claimed the Frankfurter Sparkasse Ironman European Championship and successfully defended her Ford Ironman World Championship title.

Yvonne Van Vlerken • 9:21:20

The Flying Dutchwoman made her Ford Ironman World Championship debut in style with an impressive race. Her runner-up finish adds yet another top finish to her impressive resume that includes many top-finishes at international events around the world.

Sandra Wallenhorst • 9:22:52

After giving birth to a baby boy 22 months ago, Germany's Sandra Wallenhorst burst onto the triathlon scene with an impressive world best time of 8:47 at Ironman Austria earlier this year. Her 2:58 marathon was the second fastest ever run here in Kona.

Stats

With one of the most competitive fields in Ironman history, the 2008 Ford Ironman World Championship will go down in history as the “changing of the guard” in Ironman racing. Defending champion Chrissie Wellington proved that she is the best in the world, while Craig Alexander won the title over a number of previous world champions.

2008 Ford Ironman World Championship Results

Records in Kona

Many of the records at the Ford Ironman World Championship have stood the test of time, no-doubt a tribute to the athletes who dominated the sport in it's early years. Paula Newby-Fraser, Dave Scott, Mark Allen and Luc Van Lierde are just a few of the names that have both won and set course records here in Kona, records that have stood for over a decade.
